University of Maryland

The University of Maryland, located in College Park, Maryland, was founded in 1807 as the College of Medicine of Maryland. The name was changed in 1812 to the University of Maryland and in 1920 it was merged with the Maryland State College. The current enrollment of students on the College Park campus totals 38,307. The University is located just north of our nation's capital, Washington, D.C. Visitors to the University of Maryland will be sure to find (clockwise from upper left) the Maryland Chapel, Main Administrative Building, Hornbake Library and the Glenn L. Martin Institute of Technology (the engineering building).

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

Led by its flagship campus at College Park, the University of Maryland is the state's land grant institution located on five major campuses that reach out to university students worldwide.

With some 87,838 students, more than 4,000 full-time faculty, and over 400 major programs of study, the university ranks among the top 20 public research universities in the country. Six programs at College Park (computer science, math, physics, art history, economics, and electrical engineering) are ranked among the top 10.

The 1,378 acre College Park campus, encompassing 10 professional colleges and schools, offers 125 programs of study for undergraduates. Preprofessional education is offered in 13 fields; the graduate student may choose among 80 academic areas.

Close to 30,000 undergraduates, including an increasing number of Merit Scholars and recipients of Banneker Scholarships for black students, and 8,000 graduates avail themselves of such research facilities as: scanning electron microscopes; subsonic and supersonic wind tunnels; an electron ring accelerator; a gravitational radiation detection system including a gravimeter on the moon, a criminal forensics laboratory; and a laboratory for plasma and fusion energy studies. To serve both students and faculty, the McKeldin and Hornbake libraries together with a number of specialty libraries provide materials covering all fields of modern and ancient research.

The Baltimore City campus in downtown Baltimore consists of the Schools of Dentistry, Law, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy, Social Work and Community Planning, as well as an inter-professional graduate school, a 785 bed Hospital, and the Institute for Emergency Medical Services. The University of Maryland Medical Systems/Hospital includes the Shock Trauma Center, the Cancer Center, and other health related institutes serving the community and the state.

UMBC, the modern 476-acre Baltimore County campus, opened in 1966. Offering the traditional arts, humanities, and sciences curricula, UMBC also has new programs in computer science, engineering, nursing, and information systems management. Graduate degrees are offered in 20 fields, including marine biology and policy sciences.

The Eastern Shore campus, located in historic Princess Anne, offers a full range of curricula in the arts and sciences, agriculture, and business fields. Research and public-service organizations on the 536-acre campus include the Cooperative Extension Service, Hospitality Resources Center, Institute for Eastern Shore Studies, and Soybean Research Institute.

University College, with close to 12,000 students stateside and over 24,000 overseas, is one of the country's leading centers for lifelong learning. The European and Asian Divisions of University College bring degree programs to U.S. military and government-affiliated personnel and their families in some 15 foreign countries.

Other major components of the university are the Center for Environmental and Estuarine Studies, where research and public service projects deal with the biology and ecology of Maryland and the Chesapeake Bay; the Cooperative Extension Service which provides statewide service on agriculture, home economics, and ways to improve living conditions; and the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station carrying on a university-wide program of research in agriculture and related areas. In addition to these centers, the U.S. Department of Commerce has designated Maryland as a Sea Grant College in recognition of the quality of its work related to the Chesapeake Bay.

In fulfilling its mission to train future leaders, carry out research, and provide services to the state, nation and the world, the University of Maryland ranks among the truly outstanding public institutions of higher learning in the United States.

Administration and Coaching Staff

Dr. John S. Toll

President

As president of a major research University with five campuses and 88,400 students worldwide, John S. Toll is dedicated to strengthening excellence in teaching, research, and public service. Under his leadership, the University has developed programs of high quality, has attracted outstanding faculty and students, and has built partnerships with industry, government, schools, and other institutions.

In the past few years, milestones in the University's progress have included two Pulitzer Prizes for faculty members and important developments in medical research and treatment, in biotechnology, and in many other areas, among them:

- The National Science Foundation awarded the College Park campus a $16 million grant to establish a Systems Research Center, one of six national centers of excellence in engineering.
- The University's Center of Marine Biotechnology, located in Baltimore, has received a $6.695 million, five-year federal grant.
- The U.S. Department of Education awarded the College of Education a $6.5 million, five-year grant to establish a Center for Research on Postsecondary Education Management and Governance.
- Philanthropic support for academic programs at the University has reached a new high of over $12 million annually.
- The arts flourish at Maryland, including the highly acclaimed Handel Festival; the traveling performances of "Shakespeare on Wheels," and the world renowned University of Maryland Piano Festival and William Kapell Competition.

John Toll graduated from Yale, 1944, with highest honors and earned his advanced degrees in physics at Princeton. During his distinguished career as a theoretical physicist and educator, for 12 years he chaired the physics department at the College Park campus and led it to national prominence. He then served as president of the State University of New York at Stony Brook from 1965 to 1978, when he returned to Maryland to become the University's 22nd president. An avid jogger and tennis player, Dr. Toll and his wife Deborah have two daughters.

John Brooks Slaughter, the third Chancellor of the College Park Campus, is a distinguished scientist and a dedicated humanitarian as well as an able administrator. His research specialties are in the fields of electrical engineering and computer systems. His accomplishments in these fields have brought him high recognition. He is a Fellow in the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He holds membership in the National Academy of Engineering, was selected U.C.L.A. Engineering Alumnus of the Year (1978), received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Science Foundation (1979), and was recognized for Distinguished Service in Engineering by Kansas State University (1981).

Dr. John Brooks Slaughter

Chancellor

Dr. Slaughter received his B.S. Degree in Electrical Engineering in 1956 at Kansas State University, and his Master's in Engineering from UCLA in 1961. He earned his Ph.D. in Engineering Science from the University of California, San Diego in 1971.

Dr. Slaughter is married to Dr. Ida Bernice Slaughter, herself an educator with the Montgomery County Public Schools. They have two children; John, a veterinarian, and Jacqueline, a graduate of Hampton University.

Prior to assuming his responsibilities at the University of Maryland, Dr. Slaughter served as Academic Vice President and Provost at Washington State University and as Director of the National Science Foundation. In his inauguration address to the College Park campus on May 3, 1983, he set the course for his administration: "I want to see this campus continue its vigorous pursuit of academic excellence while reaching out to a more diversified student body. I want the University of Maryland at College Park to set a national standard for excellence and equality. As we pursue these goals, we must also enhance our contributions to the State. Finally, I am committed to a university that is a community, a community that takes pride in itself and touches each person involved in the campus with pride."

Low Perkins Director of Athletics

In his first six months as Director of Athletics, Low Perkins has concentrated on establishing a strong administrative team to manage the athletic program.

Among his first priorities was hiring Dr. Gerald Gurney as Director of the Academic Support Unit. Dr. Gurney will manage the overall academic progress of all Maryland athletes.

Perkins has also concentrated on reviewing the total fund raising effort of the Maryland Athletic Department and has begun to develop plans for the overall enhancement of the program.

He has been a visible and active leader of the program, making a number of public appearances throughout the state and the area. His purpose is to meet with as many alumni groups and state leaders that his busy schedule will permit.

Perkins believes strongly in the academic progress of student-athletes and the visibility of the entire athletic program at the University.

He assumed the duties as Director of Intercollegiate Athletics on June 8, 1987.

In announcing the appointment of Perkins as the Maryland AD, on May 11, Chancellor John Slaughter said "He has demonstrated exceptional skills in management. He has an outstanding ability to make tough fiscal decisions when they are necessary and he has a clear philosophy that a sound athletic program must place its highest priority on supporting the academic program of the institution."

Perkins had gained a reputation as an outstanding administrator while serving as the Director of Athletics at Wichita State University for four years. He spent countless hours fostering university and community relations and building a solid working relationship with the NCAA and athletic programs around the country.

Results of his efforts were rewarded in 1985 when the NCAA, in an unprecedented move, cited Wichita State for running an exemplary program. The Arizona Republic newspaper soon after rated Perkins one of the top 25 athletic directors in the nation.

Perkins philosophy for direction of the 16 sport varsity intercollegiate program at Wichita State was that "winning is the most important thing in the world but not at the expense of the student-athlete or institution." His concern for the welfare of the student-athlete was confirmed when he instituted the Athletic Director's Honor Roll to honor Wichita State student-athletes maintaining a 3.0 grade point average or better. In the first two years of his honor roll program, 212 athletes were recognized for their academic achievements.

A native of Chelsea, Massachusetts, Perkins has been active in collegiate athletics since he graduated from Chelsea High in 1963. He was the top basketball scorer in the Boston area that year, averaging over 35 points a game.

He attended the University of Iowa where he earned three letters in basketball as the Hawkeyes recorded a 47-25 record. As a senior, he received the Tony Cordaro Memorial Award in recognition of his achievements on the basketball court and in the classroom.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Iowa in 1967 and in 1969 received certification in Physical Education. In 1975, he earned a master's degree in Guidance and Counseling from the University of South Carolina-Columbia.

Upon leaving Iowa he became the Athletic Director and Head Basketball Coach at the University of South Carolina-Aiken where he remained for 11 years. He took USC-Aiken from junior college to four year status and built a strong athletic program.

He served as Associate Athletics Director at the University of Pennsylvania from 1980 to 1983. While at Penn he was responsible for the day-to-day operation of an athletic program that included 28 varsity sports. He handled many responsibilities while at Penn, including supervising and monitoring NCAA and Ivy League rules and regulations.

At Maryland, Perkins oversees a department fielding NCAA teams in 23 sports and operating on an annual budget of $8.7 million. The department has over 90 full-time employees.

Perkins was born on March 24, 1945. He is married to the former Gwen Flaum. Gwen has her BA degree from the University of Iowa and a Master's in Education from the University of South Carolina where she is also a Doctoral candidate.

They have two daughters Amy, 16, a volleyball player in high school, and Holly 14. Holly is active in all sports but favors golf.

Robert P. “Bob” Wade

Head Basketball Coach

Beginning his second year as Head Coach of the Terrapins, Bob Wade enters the season with high expectations. His starting five in all of the 26 games return and he was successful in having a good recruiting year, bringing in three youngsters, ranked by many in the Top Ten best newcomers.

After accepting the position of head coach only two days before the start of a delayed season, Wade promised one thing—the Maryland team would be competitive. Being competitive in the ACC would be a hard thing to do, even for one who brought a phenomenal winning percentage of 91.9% to Maryland. At Dunbar of Baltimore, Wade not only coached basketball to great players, but also taught them something more important than basketball, the essence of getting an education. Academics would not take a back seat to basketball, not at Dunbar and not at the University of Maryland. “Having something like an education to fall back on is of the utmost importance,” Wade said.

Wade inherited a team with no seniors, a junior playing out of position, three sophomores who saw limited action the previous season, and seven new players. He did make this team competitive. His coaching peers marveled how well the team progressed as the season went on and played impressively as the season wound down. Wade’s team got closer to beating North Carolina at Cole Field House than any Maryland team in the past three years. Nine of Maryland’s opponents (15 games) reached the NCAA Tournament.

After the last regular season game, Brent Musburger of CBS-TV, named Coach Wade “Rookie Coach of the Year.”

On October 30, 1986, after 11 years and 272 victories at Dunbar, Wade embarked upon a new frontier. The challenge of restoring the Terrapin basketball program, the task of pushing Maryland to the forefront of athletic and academic excellence. Chancellor John B. Slaughter’s announcement of Wade as the first black basketball coach in Atlantic Coast Conference history was surprising, bold and imaginative. “All the things I wanted to see in a basketball coach were embodied in Bob Wade,” Slaughter said upon the announcement of Wade as the sixth head basketball coach in Maryland history. “His emphasis on academic attainment is completely in consonance with what we put into place.”

Certainly, the man comes to Maryland with glimmering credentials. His Dunbar programs dominated Baltimore basketball, enveloping the city in a sense of pride and accomplishment and procuring its stature as one of the nation’s top pools of young talent. The Poets went on a remarkable 272-24 during Wade’s 11 years at Dunbar—a phenomenal .919 winning percentage. Included during that tenure were five top 10 and three No. 1 national high school rankings (1983, 1984, 1985) and nine MSA A Conference championships. And his 1982-83 team, a roster blessed with standouts Reggie Williams (Georgetown), Tyrone Bagues (Wake Forest), Tim Dawson (George Washington) and Michael Brown (Clemson), is considered by many to be the finest high school basketball team ever.

But Wade’s reputation as a winner ventures much deeper than any won-lost record. It encapsulates the maturation of young men, the preparation for the future and the understanding of what it takes to succeed. Dunbar players were required to spend two hours daily in his mandatory study hall (one hour during the season), and all players were to complete their classroom obligations before partaking in his dominant basketball program. An academic advisor had an office adjacent to Wade’s “classroom,” and was instructed to pull a student off the court if a review of schoolwork was necessary. It was the Wade Way: conscientious, disciplined, communicative. “He wants them to know they need something to fall back on,” said Geraldine West, who served as Wade’s academic advisor and is head of the Dunbar mathematics department. “He tells them that not everyone is going to be a pro star. Sports are a means to get a diploma.”

On the court, his Dunbar teams were a poetic symphony of hoop pulchritude. They diminished the opposition with a fullcourt transition game, suffocating teams with a choking pressure defense and devastating fastbreak. Wade was not blessed with exceptional height throughout his years at Dunbar. Instead, he utilized athletic ability and intense discipline—and that explosive, end-to-end transition—to force teams into submission.

When it comes to running a basketball team, few have done it better. Wade sent 36 of his players on to play college basketball, and every Dunbar senior since 1978 has gone on to participate at an NCAA level. The list of Wade pupils who have gone on to achieve success at the Division I level is extensive: Ernest Graham at Maryland; Williams and David Wingate of Georgetown; Dawson at George Washington; 5-foot-3 point guard extraordinaire Bagues at Wake Forest; Reggie Lewis at Northeastern; Brown at Clemson; Herman Harried at Syracuse; Gary Graham at Nevada-Las Vegas; Steve Wallace at Missouri; Dwayne Wallace at Pittsburgh; Terry and Perry Dozier, Keith James and Derrick Lewis, all at South Carolina; and Kevin Woods at Tennessee are to name the core of the group. “My concern is for the child,” says The Coach. “If he is able to receive an athletic scholarship from this program and go on to better himself in life, then I think it’s worthwhile.”

Wade also served as football coach and athletic director during his tenure at Dunbar. In leading the football Poets to four straight MSA championship games and two MSA titles, he further established his abilities to push young men to excellence. “Bob is the right man for any kind of job,” said longtime friend, MSA rival and former boss Pete Pompey, the head football coach at Baltimore-Edmondson.

COACH WADE AND FAMILY
Wife Carolyn and Sons Daryl, 20; Darion, 11

But it was on the basketball court where Wade instilled national prominence. He went 12-6 in his first season, then won his first MSA A title the following year (1976-77) with a 23-1 record. Three straight MSA titles ensued, and in 1981-82, with Wingate, Williams and Bogues, Wade led Dunbar through an incredible four-year streak which included a 119-1 record, the three mythical national championships and four more MSA crowns.

Wade turned down several offers to become an assistant coach at a college program with national presence, electing instead to stay in Baltimore and at Dunbar with his wife of 21 years, Carolyn, and sons Daryl, 20 and Darion, 11. But when the chance to take the head position at Maryland arose, Wade admits he "was in a state of disbelief when they offered me the job. I'm honored and elated."

Born in Baltimore on December 9, 1944, Robert Purnell Wade grew up just a few blocks from the school where he would later assume a longtime athletic role. He attended Dunbar High, where he played football and basketball. As a sixth man in basketball, Wade played for the legendary William F. "Sugar" Cain, the man whom he later succeeded as basketball coach.

Wade went on to attend Morgan State University, where he earned his Bachelor's and Master's Degrees in Physical Education and learned the values of communication and discipline. At Morgan State from 1963 to 1966, he concentrated on football and starred as a defensive back for the Golden Bears, who lost just four games during his four seasons. He was drafted by the NFL's Baltimore Colts in the 15th round of the 1967 Collegiate Draft and spent four years in the NFL, with the Washington Redskins, Pittsburgh Steelers and Denver Broncos. A wrist injury in 1971 cut short his playing career; Wade returned to the Baltimore area, first as a teacher at Clarksville Middle School (Howard County) for one year, then as an assistant to Pompey at Edmondson from 1972-75. In September, 1975, Wade assumed his roles at Dunbar.

"I hope the marriage between Bob Wade and Maryland will be a tremendous one," the coach said on the day of his appointment.

If his tenure at Dunbar was the courtship, the marriage should be a long and prosperous one.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Ron Bradley
Eastern Nazarene '73

The senior member of head coach Bob Wade's assistant staff, Ron Bradley begins his seventh season at Maryland and fifth season on a full-time basis, having served as a volunteer assistant to Lefty Driesell from 1981-83. Prior to his arrival in College Park, Bradley was head coach at alma mater Eastern Nazarene, where he led the Crusaders to a 96-51 record and four NCAA District championships.

During Bradley's tenure as a full-time assistant at Maryland, the Terps have won 77 of 128 games and captured an ACC Tournament Championship (1984). His extensive educational background includes a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology/ History from Eastern Nazarene and a Master's in Physical Education from Bridgewater State (Mass.) College. Bradley is currently pursuing his Ph.D. in Sports Psychology at Maryland, a program he enrolled in shortly after accepting the Terp volunteer position in 1982.

A four-year letterman in basketball at Eastern Nazarene (1969-73), Bradley ranked among the top 15 NAIA scorers in the nation twice and was a three-time honorable mention All-America selection by AP and UPI. Playing for his father, Carroll F. Bradley, who has since returned as coach at Eastern Nazarene, Ron scored 2,649 points in 107 games (24.8 ppg) and was drafted by the ABA's New York Nets as a junior-eligible in 1972.

Bradley played for several Boston-area semipro teams from 1973-76, then accepted the head coaching position at Eastern Nazarene. His Crusaders won 20 or more games twice and captured the NCAA Regional Championship in 1979. Married to the former Denise Smith of Salisbury, the Bradleys have two children: son Brad, 9, and daughter Katlin, 3. He was born in Springfield, Massachusetts on February 9, 1951.

Oliver Purnell
Old Dominion '75

After 14 seasons of direct association with the basketball program at Old Dominion, Oliver Purnell begins his third season as an assistant at Maryland. Recognized as one of the top recruiters on the East Coast, Purnell played a major role in establishing ODU as one of the better programs in the Atlantic Coast region and has teamed with fellow assistant Bradley to give Maryland its third straight solid recruiting year.

A 1975 graduate of Old Dominion and a sixth-round pick of the Milwaukee Bucks in that year's NBA Draft, Purnell was a three-year starter at point guard for the Monarchs. As a senior, he captained ODU to the Division II National Championship with a 25-6 record. He scored 1,090 points during his three seasons and still ranks fifth on the ODU all-time assist list with 474.

Purnell joined the Monarchs' coaching staff as a graduate assistant in 1975, after earning his Bachelor's degree in Health and Physical Education. He spent two years on the ODU staff as a grad assistant, earning his Master's in Administration in 1978. He was made a full-time assistant in 1977; in 1980, he was named top assistant coach. During Purnell's 10 years at Old Dominion, the Monarchs were 196-99 and made nine postseason appearances.

Born May 9, 1953 in Berlin, Maryland, Purnell's wife, the former Vicky Wise, graduated from Maryland in 1975 with a Bachelor's degree in music and worked in the Admissions Office for two years following graduation. They have two daughters: Olivia, 4; and Linsay, 2.

Jeff Adkins
Maryland '85

A four-year letterman at Maryland and the Terps' all-time leader in consecutive games played with 128, Jeff Adkins begins his third season on the Maryland coaching staff. Adkins joined the staff in September 1985 as a graduate assistant to Lefty Driesell, and assumed part-time status in May 1986, when Bart Bellairs accepted a position at the University of Massachusetts.

A graduate of Maryland with a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics, Adkins was a steady influence at guard for the Terps, who went 85-43 and qualified for three NCAA Tournaments during his tenure as a player. A seventh-round draft pick of the Chicago Bulls, Adkins had 999 points (7.8 ppg), 360 assists (2.8) and 310 rebounds (2.4) during his career. His best season was as a junior, when he started 31 games, shot 53.8 percent from the floor and averaged 9.5 points per game. He also averaged 9.9 points and 4.0 assists per game as a sophomore.

A native of Martinsville, Virginia, where he was born May 20, 1963, Adkins is single.

Dr. Stanford A. Lavine (Maryland '50)

Team Physician

Dr. Lavine, for 27 years has been the University's Team Physician and Orthopedic Surgeon. He has medically supervised athletes in all of the University's sports programs, which now numbers 22.

He is with the football team at all games, home and away, and attends all the home basketball games and many away games.

His office is on call at all times when the trainers call for him to see an athlete. In all these years, Dr. Lavine has missed only 5 Maryland football games.

He is considered one of the nation's top Orthopedic Surgeons and is most prominent in the field of "Sports Medicine." He has an annual clinic which attracts the top Orthopedic Surgeons and athletic team doctors in the country. His reputation has brought him numerous professional athletes of all sports, men and women, for surgery and treatment.

Dr. Lavine had been the team physician for the Washington Redskins since 1975. He also was the team physician for the Washington Bullets, 1973-79. Thus, his trophy mantle glitters with 5 Maryland ACC Championships rings, 2 Redskin Super Bowl rings, and one NBA Championship ring while with the Bullets.

Out of Pittsburgh's (PA) Schenley High School, he has scholarship offers from the University of Kentucky and West Virginia before choosing Maryland. In his first year as the Terp quarterback, he played for the legendary Clark Shaughnesy. Playing for the late Jim Tatum his junior year, he led the Terps to a 9-1 record including a 20-7 win over Missouri in the Gator Bowl in which he threw for two touchdowns.

Following graduation from the University's Medical School, he interned in Philadelphia and Cleveland, served two years in the Air Force then began his medical practice at Washington Hospital Center. He now works out of the Center and Sibley Hospital.

John J. Bush (Florida State '69)

Head Trainer

J. J. Bush joined the Maryland Training Staff in 1972 and took over the Head Trainer's duties in 1978. He has the overall responsibility for 22 varsity sports.

He came to Maryland from the U.S. Army where he served with the Airborne Rangers. He holds a Private Pilot's license and enjoys flying when he has the opportunity.

J. J. has hosted several Cramer Student Trainer Workshops at Maryland and is active in the National Athletic Trainers Association especially in the area of improving training on the high school level. In 1981 he was appointed as the District III representative to the National Association's Committee on Licensure. In 1981 he was also elected President of the Maryland Athletic Trainer Association, a group he helped organize in 1980. He and his wife Gina have a son Jordan 3½ years old, and he has a stepson, Brandon Cole 10.

Bill Saylor (Delaware '80)

Assistant Trainer

Saylor was named to the Maryland training staff September 1 and was given the assignment as head trainer for the basketball team.

He received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education, from the University of Delaware, 1980. He earned his Master's Degree in Physical Education from the University of Virginia, August, 1983.

He served as an athletic trainer in the Sports Medicine Department of the U.S. Naval Academy 1984-86. He assisted the training staff of the Washington Redskins' mini-camps and summer training camps, 1985-87.

He participated in sports medicine and sports psychology seminars and clinics at Delaware and Virginia. He accumulated over 1600 hours of practical work, also at Delaware and Virginia. Saylor also has been the trainer for a number of summer lacrosse, wrestling, football and basketball camps. He married Patricia Bird, also a 1980 graduate of Delaware.

NATION'S LEADING SHOT BLOCKER

DERRICK LEWIS

Senior/Forward-Center

6-7, 195 DOB: 8-1-1966

John Carroll High

Temple Hills, Md.

A genuine All-America candidate following outstanding sophomore and junior years . . . The Sporting News, on their All-America checklist, picked Lewis as the third best power forward in the country, they ranked him behind Danny Manning and J.R. Reid . . . Lewis is the nation's top returning shot blocker for the 1987-88 season . . . He finished second last year to Navy's All-American Dave Robinson . . . Lewis had a 4.4 average blocks per game while Robinson had a 4.5 average, one-tenth of a point higher . . . Started every game at center his sophomore and junior years . . . Plans are for him to return to his desired forward position as the center job is slated for freshman Brian Williams and sophomore Tony Massenburg . . . A first team All-ACC selection last year, the only junior to be named to the first team . . . He returns as the ACC's leading scorer (19.6), leading rebounder (9.5), top shot blocker (4.4); and best field goal % (.602) . . . Last year's team captain led the team in 5 categories: scoring (510 points, 19.6) field goal % (.602); rebounding, 248 (9.5); blocked shots, 114 (4.4), and steals, 37 . . . Since the NCAA officially started keeping blocked shots (1985-86 season), Lewis has been the ACC's top blocker with 77 his sophomore year and 114 last year . . . As a freshman, when blocks weren't officially recognized, he had a league leading 99 which was second best in the nation . . . Officially, he has at least one block in every game he has played, 33 as a soph and 26 last season . . . Also, as a freshman, he had at least one block per game . . . He has started 93 consecutive games . . . As a freshman, he did not start his first 3 games, then was a starter in the final 34 games of his freshman season, then started all 33 games as a sophomore and the 26 last season . . . Against UMBC last year he set a new ACC record when he came up with his second "Triple-Double" . . . He scored his career high 32 points and had 10 rebounds and 10 blocked shots . . . Earlier in the year vs James Madison, he came up with his then career high points, 29, career high 23 rebounds, and career and Maryland record of 12 blocked shots . . . His 23 rebounds fell short by 3 of the All-Time Maryland record of 26 set by Len Elmore against Wake Forest in 1974 . . . His 12 blocked shots at JMU eclipsed the former record of 11 set in their Convocation Center earlier in the year by Navy's Robinson . . . He was in double figures in 24 of the 26 games, scoring just 2 vs Notre Dame as he left the game early with an injury . . . He had 9 vs Duke in the first game . . . He scored 20 or more points in 13 of the 26 games . . . At one point in the season, he had scored 20 or more in 6 straight games, (22, 22, 27, 29, 25, 24) . . . In 8 games, he rebounded in double figures . . . He was headed for his record breaking third "Triple Double" going into the UMES game, but didn't play the final 7 minutes, going out with 15 points, 10 blocks, and 7 rebounds . . . Thought to be his top game of the season was against North Carolina, 2/14 in Cole, by scoring 26 points (9 of 13 fgs and 8 of 12 fts); 13 rebounds; 6 assists, 2 blocks, and 3 steals in 39 minutes.

Sophomore—The only Maryland player to start all 33 games . . . Averaged 7.9 points per game on 48.5 shooting from the floor and 68.4 percent from the line . . . Grabbed 222 rebounds, second on the team, and averaged 6.7 rebounds per contest, tied for fifth in the ACC . . . Blocked a team-high 71 shots and did an outstanding job defensively despite constantly being assigned to the opposition's top big man . . . Finished second in the ACC in blocked shots despite covering players usually taller than he . . . Scored in double figures in 13 games, with a career high of 16 against Ohio State and Georgia Tech in Atlanta . . . Reached double figures in rebounds in 10 games with a season high of 12 against Duke (College Park) and at Clemson . . . Had seven blocks vs. North Carolina in Maryland's stunning upset at the Smith Center and against Stanford in the Hawaii Pacific Tournament . . . Had six against Virginia in the regular season finale and against Fairleigh Dickinson . . . Led the Terps in steals with 37 and finished second in minutes played with 1,079.

Freshman—Finished second in the nation and first in the ACC in blocked shots with 99—15 more than the entire opponents' total against Maryland that season . . . Started 34 of 37 games and 34 straight, meaning Lewis has started 67 straight games without a miss . . . Averaged 6.0 points and finished seventh in the ACC with an average of 6.5 rebounds per game, shooting 46.6 percent from the floor and 62.5 percent from the line . . . Set a Terp season record with 122 personal fouls and was disqualified from five games . . . Had 10 blocked shots against Tennessee in the Great Alaska Shootout, and 10 again vs. Towson State . . . Set a personal career high with 14 rebounds against Wake Forest and had a season high 16 points against Duke in the ACC Tournament . . . Was named ACC Rookie of the Week twice, and finished second in ACC Rookie of the Year balloting to Georgia Tech's Duane Ferrell—many felt Lewis deserved the award.

High School—One of the most sought-after players in the country and labeled by coaches as the best defensive player in the nation . . . Was rated as the sixth best prospect in the land by the Knoxville News-Sentinel and was the lone Washington-area player named to the McDonald's 25-man dream team . . . Was selected as the Metro team's Most Valuable Player in the 11th annual McDonald's Classic at the Capital Centre . . . Was chosen to receive the Mr. Basketball Award by the Washington Touchdown Club and was honored by the Silver Hills Boys and Girls Clubs, receiving the John Wesley Davis memorial "Boy of the Year" award . . . A member of the National Honor Society while at John Carroll and extremely active in school activities.

Spotlight Stat—Blocked an amazing 99 shots as a freshman, placing him second to Navy's David Robinson—four inches taller—in the country. Perhaps even more mind-boggling is that Lewis blocked most of those 99 shots despite serving as an under age, undersized center. Despite his seemingly fragile build and lack of upper body strength, Lewis has never missed a game while at Maryland.

CAREER HIGHS

- 32 points against UMBC (shot 81% from the floor this game), 1986-87

KEITH GATLIN

Senior/Guard
 6-5 170, DOB: 12-23-1964
 D.H. Conley High
 Grimesland, N.C.

With three outstanding years for the Terps, the highly recruited Gatlin achieved the reputation as one of the nation's finest guards . . . His return will give the team valuable depth at the guard spot . . . The much heralded Gatlin came to Maryland after he was selected as the state of North Carolina's "Player of the Year" . . . He holds the single game, season, and career assist record for the Terps . . . His single game record 13 assists came vs Virginia, 1/30/86, his junior year . . . His season record breaking mark came as a sophomore when he dished off 221 . . . He broke the career/mark of 178 set by John Lucas during the 1974-75 season . . . The new assist career record, 573, was made when he had 204 his junior year . . . He actually set the record 2/20/86 vs North Carolina in the "Dean Dome" as he assisted Len Bias for a slam-dunk goal . . . This gave him his 515th assist for the new career record . . . He then went on to add 58 for the present record of 573 . . . His 326 points (10.2) was second high his junior year . . . He scored in double figures in 19 of the 32 games played, with a high of 20 vs Northeastern . . . Keith, as a sophomore, tied a Terp single game record for most consecutive field goals, 10, as he hit 14 of 15 vs Clemson his soph year, 2/17/86 . . . He was 5 of 6 the first half, making the first 4, missing the 5th, and hitting the 6th . . . He was successful on all 9 attempts the second half . . . This tied the Terps' Barry Yates who hit 10 straight vs Miami (Fla.), December, 1970. His 28 points vs Clemson, also 2/17, was his career and single game high . . . In his three years, he has started 74 of 101 games, 35 of 37 his sophomore year and 30 of 32 his junior year . . . He is an excellent free throw shooter, hitting .802% during the three years . . . At D.H. Conley High School, he scored a career high of 1612 points with a single game high of 38 points . . . As a senior, he averaged 25 a game . . . TONY MASSENBURG

 6-9, 210, DOB: 7-13-1967
 Sussex Central
 Sussex, Virginia

Massenbourg will be an important addition to the team at the center position, the spot hopefully vacated by Derrick Lewis, and given to a battle between the 6-9 Massenbourg and 6-10 freshman, Brian Williams . . . The Terps have not had a true center in recent years . . . Massenbourg has worked exceptionally hard to help contribute . . . He has super strength that will make him be a power under the basket . . . Has great rebounding potential with his size and strength . . . Will be an intimidator . . . Can be top scorer, also, with a good shooting touch . . . Tony has a good quickness, runs the floor well and is a tremendous jumper . . . Has excessive aggressiveness . . . Records Broken—Sophomore Year—Most assists in a game; 22 vs Dundalk . . . Season record for assists, 559 . . . Career Records—265 steals, 1025 assists.

Junior college All-American Archer was at Baltimore's City Hall as Mayor Clarence "Du" Burns was trying to convince him to attend Maryland . . . "Miss Baltimore" was also with the Mayor . . . Finally, after Burns had exhausted himself, the 6-1 passing wizard, considered the best new Division I point guard prospect in the country, offered the Mayor the final touch by announcing that he had already signed with Coach Wade the day before . . . Archer was at City Hall to receive a key to the city and a mayoral proclamation making it "Rudy Archer Day" . . . He also received a resolution from the City Council for the positive image he has presented of the city through his play at Allegany . . . He was the most-sought after point guard in the nation, according to Eastern Basketball magazine . . . Howard Garfinkel, the basketball guru who runs the popular Five Star camps said after Archer's signing, "now that gives Maryland the best point guard in the country and the best big man," referring to Archer and Brian Williams, the 6-10 high school All-American from Santa Monica, CA . . . His coming to Maryland is the first by a Baltimorean since Wade, then the Dunbar coach, sent Ernie Graham to the Terps ten years ago . . . Archer had narrowed his choice to Maryland, Ohio State and Nevada-Las Vegas . . . At Southwestern, he was named the team's MVP and was a first team All-Met selection.

Freshman/Forward
6-9, 200, DOB: 9-24-1969
John Carroll High School
Temple Hills, Maryland

There was a lot of speculation whether or not the talented Cedric would join his brother Derrick as a Terrapin . . . The high scoring and premier shot blocker, following intensive recruiting, signed last spring . . . Derrick said he knew it all along that Cedric would become a Terp . . . His signing came a week before now teammate Brian Williams decided on Maryland . . . Cedric was rated as the No. 1 shot blocker in the nation last year . . . This gives the Terps the nation's leading collegiate shot blocker returning this year, Derrick, and the 1-2 high school shot blockers last year . . . Along with his shot blocking skill, Cedric is an excellent scorer and has outstanding rebounding abilities . . . Will contribute greatly and immediately, giving outstanding depth at the forward spot.

Played center his last three years for DC's John Carroll High School.

For his senior year, he averaged 17 ppg, nine rebounds, and 15 blocked shots. His single game high was 25 points, 15 rebounds and 15 blocked shots.

Selected to play in last springs' Capital Classic for the area All-Stars vs the United States All-Stars.

Named to the All-Metropolitan second teams.

RODNEY WALKER

Junior/Forward
6-9, 250, DOB: 9-3-1966
Cardinal Gibbons High,
Baltimore, Md.

Transferred to Maryland from Syracuse following last year's first semester . . . Will be able to play for the Terps at the end of this fall semester, which would be the South Carolina game December 28 . . . In the early games for the Orangemen last fall, he played sparingly, seeing action in four games and scoring 14 points and had 7 rebounds . . . In his freshman year, he played in 31 games and saw action in the front court . . . His scoring high was 15 points in NCAA tourney game against Brown . . . His rebound high was 9, vs Utica in the season opener and again in the Brown game . . . Had 103 points . . . Was first team All-Catholic and All-Metro . . . A McDonald's All-American . . . At Cardinal Gibbons High, Walker averaged 23.1 points and 8.9 rebounds . . . His great size will give the Terps a great deal more inside power and strength . . . Wade scored 1150 points and had 603 rebounds in two years . . . Blocked 84 shots as a senior . . . Wade was most pleased that Walker decided to come to Maryland.

BRIAN WILLIAMS

Freshman/Center

campus style and the setting making it a really nice campus . . . Also, he said he liked the idea of playing in the ACC . . . Williams' father Gene is a member of the singing group, the Platters . . . An original member, he has been with the group for more than 30 years.

It was not until his senior year that the college recruiters decided that Williams had developed into one of the top three centers in the country . . . They talked so much about the lefthanded shot blocker extraordinaire, he became one of the most highly sought after players in the recruiting efforts of the nation's coaches . . . The Sporting News ranked him as the nation's number one center out of high school last year . . . He was rated as the No. 2 high school shot blocker in the nation, behind now teammate and freshman Cedric Lewis . . . Defensive skills exceptional . . . His final college selection decision came down to Temple and Maryland . . . He said he liked the older

All-American center at St. Monica High School, Santa Monica, California.

His senior year, he averaged 17.3 points per game; shot .577% field goals; .639% free throws; 12.7 rebounds; 9.1 blocked shots; 2.5 steals; 2.1 assists.

First team McDonald's All-American; First team All-State; First team All-League; First team All-California Interscholastic Federation.

Selected to the 12-man team for the USA Junior National team that participated in the III FIBA World Championship for Junior Men played in Bormio, Italy last August.

He played in 6 of the 7 games. Scored 25 points (4.2) while playing 56 minutes. He hit 10 of 19 from the floor; 5 of 11 from the line; had 25 rebounds, four offense and 21 defense.

Played for the West All-Stars in the McDonald's East-West All-America classic in Philadelphia's Spectrum last spring.

Played in the annual Dapper Dan All-Star classic in Pittsburgh.

A LOOK BACK

A REVIEW OF 1986-87

The scene has been repeated many times in the course of the Maryland basketball team's 1986-87 season. This would be the last time—the Terps had just lost to North Carolina, 82-63, in the first round of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. But the scene was the same.

As they sat in the Capital Centre locker room, the Maryland players talked in upbeat terms about the game, and the season, that had just ended. As always, there were no fingers pointed, no chairs thrown, no blame assessed. As always, the Terps dwelled on the positives—on lessons learned and the promise of better times.

"It's not good sportsmanship to get down or hang your head," center Derrick Lewis said after that loss to North Carolina. "You know someone has to win and someone has to lose, and there's no use pouting about it . . . It goes back to Coach Wade. Anytime you come from a winning high school program like Coach Wade did, there's going to be frustration when you lose. But I don't think he ever gave up on us. He never sat down and cussed us out. He was always encouraging us."

Bob Wade, 272-24 in his 11 years as head coach at Dunbar High in Baltimore, had precious little time to prepare after he was hired at Maryland on October 29, 1986. If he became discouraged during the Terps' 9-17 season, he rarely showed it. A couple of days before the ACC Tournament, he had already put the team's 0-14 regular-season league record behind him.

"I don't want to project a sense of tenseness to our kids; I want them to be loose," Wade said at the time. "All of the trials and tribulations of our regular season are history."

The theme for this Maryland team was "Don't Look Back." The players adopted that philosophy last fall, as they tried to recover from the tragic death of Len Bias. To the nation, Bias was simply a symbol—the All-America forward from Maryland.

"It's been frustrating, but I'm glad we didn't skip the season," Lewis said. "I can't say I'm glad we didn't win a game (in the league), but this year has definitely helped us. We'll be better prepared with everyone coming back and everyone getting experience this year. We'll have good players coming in, and we'll have more people coming off the bench. We'll be a team to reckon with, I hope. There's nothing we can do but improve."

It's hard to imagine Lewis improving upon his 1986-87 season. The 6-foot-7 center was the only junior in the league to earn first-team All-ACC honors. In doing so, he joined an elite group of Terps. The only other Maryland players to make the All-ACC first team as juniors were Bias (1985), Albert King (1980), John Lucas (1975) and Tom McMillen (1972). All four were selected to All-America teams as seniors.

Lewis split the ACC's regular season statistical lead with Clemson center Horace Grant, who was named the league Player of the Year. Lewis was the league's best rebounder with a 9.5 average compared to Grant's 9.7 rebounds. Lewis led the league in blocked shots for the second time in three years with 4.4 per game, finishing second in the nation to Navy's 7-1 David Robinson (4.5 regular-season average). Grant led the ACC in scoring (21.2 points) and field-goal percentage (66.2). Lewis was second with 19.6 points and 60.2 percent from the field.

Although Lewis, the team captain, was the undisputed leader, all of the Terps contributed. Freshman forward Steve Hood finished the league tournament as the leading scorer among ACC rookies with a 14.2 average, and he had a career-high 27 points against Virginia in Maryland's regular season finale. Fellow freshman Teyon McCoy started every game at point guard and led the team in three-point field goals (36-for-80) and assists (111).

Sophomores John Johnson (10.9 points) and Dave Dickerson (8.3 points, 5.6 rebounds) rounded out the starting lineup that Wade used every game, and the Terps received key contributions off the bench from sophomore transfer Ivan Powell, freshman Mark Karver, sophomore Greg Nared, redshirt freshman Phil Nevin and freshman Andre Reyes, Mitch Kasoff and Pat Holland. Junior Tom Worstell, a first-team All-America for the Terps' lacrosse team, played in eight basketball games before spring lacrosse practice beckoned.

Although they were at a tremendous disadvantage in height and depth against every ACC opponent, the Terps did exceed expectations. Nine of their conference losses were by nine points or fewer. There was a one-point loss to Clemson at Cole Field House, where the Tigers won 80-79 on a 25-foot jumper by Michael Brown in the closing seconds. Twice the Terps lost to Georgia Tech by four points. They went 9-2 against non-conference teams, including a 65-62 upset victory over West Virginia on January 21.

But the best news came off the court. In January, 6-10 center Rodney Walker transferred to Maryland from Syracuse; he will be eligible to play after the fall 1987 semester. By the time the Terps played North Carolina in the ACC Tournament, Wade had also received verbal commitments from two other 6-10 players: Brian Williams, a McDonalds All-America from Santa Monica, California, and Cedric Lewis, Derrick's younger brother. They made it official in early April when they signed national letters of intent.

Then on April 20, Maryland notched one of its biggest victories when Rudy Archer announced he would join the Terps next season. Archer, a 6-1 point guard from Southwestern High in Baltimore, spent the last two years at Allegany Community College. He was named first-team JUCO All-America, and many recruiting experts rated him the best guard available in the nation this year.

"I think next year's going to be the beginning of an era here," Johnson said after the loss in the ACC tournament. "We've had a good recruiting year so far (even before Archer signed), and we've all gotten a lot of valuable experience."

Considered by many as one of the greatest spectacles in sports, the ACC Tournament returns to the Greensboro Coliseum this year. Played at Reynolds Coliseum (Raleigh) from 1954 to 1966, the tournament was held in Charlotte from 1968 to 1970 before stationing in Greensboro, where it was played through 1975. In 1976, the tournament made its first appearance in Landover, then moved back to Greensboro from 1977 to 1980. Landover was again the site in 1981; the tournament has also been played in Atlanta (1983 and 1985).

Maryland in Close Games

Although some critics have contended that Maryland doesn't win games that go down to the wire, the numbers prove quite differently, showing that the Terps are among the nation's better ballclubs when it comes to pressure situations. The following charts/breakdowns prove that Maryland has indeed won more than their fair share of close games.

ALL-AMERICA PROFILES

Louis (Bosey) Berger

6-2 Forward
1929-32

Considered one of the greatest athletes in Maryland's history . . . A two-time All-American selection, an almost impossible achievement at the time because Maryland was considered an agricultural school and had carried a rural identity . . . Chosen as a senior by Chuck Taylor as the captain of the Converse All-America team, a title befitting of who was thought to be the best all-round player in the nation . . . Led Maryland to the 1931 Southern Conference Championship, scoring a phenomenal (for then) 172 points during the season and receiving acclaim as the greatest player in Southern Conference history . . . Concentrated on his first love, baseball, after college . . . Signed with the Cleveland Indians in 1932 and played in the major leagues for six years as an infielder, batting .236 with the Indians, Chicago and Boston.

Len Elmore

6-9 Center
1971-74

One of the more dominating inside players in Maryland history and the all-time leading Terp rebounder for a game (26), season (412) and career (1053) . . . A tremendous shot-blocker whose defensive presence helped Maryland to a 73-17 record during his three varsity seasons . . . Joined the United States All Stars (on emergency) to help America face the Russians in a three-game series and was outstanding, controlling the lane and allowing the U.S. to emerge victorious . . . A second-team All-America in 1972-73 and again in 1973-74 . . . Named to All-ACC teams three times, and to conference all-tournament and squads three times . . . Named Maryland's Best Rebounder in 1972, Maryland's Top Defensive Player and Best Rebounder in 1973 and was awarded the coveted Outstanding Senior Award in 1974 . . . Drafted in the first round of the 1974 NBA Draft by the Washington Bullets, but chose to sign with the ABA's Indiana Pacers . . . Spent 10 seasons in the ABA/NBA, with Indiana, Milwaukee, New Jersey and New York . . . Retired after the 1984-85 season to enroll in the Harvard Law School—the only player in NBA history to do so.

Len Bias

6-8 Forward
1982-86

Maryland's all-time leading scorer and the only player in Terp history to be named ACC Player of the Year twice . . . The conference's leading scorer in 1984-85 (18.9) and again in 1985-86 (23.2), the first player to do so since N.C. State's Kenny Carr accomplished the feat 10 seasons ago . . . Set school record for season scoring with 701 points as a junior, then broke the record as a senior . . . A consensus All-America selection as a senior and second- and third-team All-America honors as a junior . . . Ranks ninth among all-time ACC scorers . . . Set a Maryland record for most points in a road game when he scored 41 against No. 2 Duke at Cameron Indoor Stadium January 1986.

Albert King

Forward
1977-81

Came to Maryland after a prolific career at Fort Hamilton High in the Bronx, N.Y., where he averaged 38.6 points and 22 rebounds per game as a senior and was considered the nation's top recruit . . . Felt the tremendous burden of pressure that accompanied him to Maryland during his first two seasons at College Park, but still averaged 13.6 and 15.9 points and more than five rebounds per game as a freshman and sophomore . . . Assumed a greater role in the offense as a junior (1979-80) and exploded, averaging 21.7 points and 6.7 rebounds and shooting 55.3 percent from the floor . . . Finished his career at Maryland as the school's all-time leading scorer; still ranks second with 2,058 points . . . Also ranks eighth among Terp rebounders (715) and ninth among career free-throw shooters (77.5 percent) . . . Drafted in the first round of the 1981 NBA Draft (12th pick overall) by the New Jersey Nets . . . Older brother Bernard led the NBA in scoring the 1984-85 season and is a member of the Washington Bullets.

John Lucas

6-4 Guard
1972-76

A consensus two-time All-America (junior and senior seasons) . . . A four-year starter at Maryland, where he is the only player in Terp history to be named first-team All-ACC three straight years . . . Maryland's all-time leading scorer from 1976 until 1981, when Albert King surpassed his total of 2,015 points . . . All-time school assist leader until last February, when Keith Gatlin passed his total of 514 . . . Now ranks fourth among all-time Terp scorers, second among all-time assist men and eighth in all-time free throw percentage . . . Served as point guard for Maryland during its finest seasons, leading the Terps to a No. 8 ranking in 1973, a No. 4 ranking in 1974 and No. 5 in 1975 . . . Also saw a bit of action at forward as a junior and senior, when Brad Davis played the point . . . Also a standout in tennis; Lucas won the ACC Singles Crown as a junior and senior and the Doubles Tournament as a sophomore . . . The first pick overall in the 1976 NBA Draft by the Houston Rockets . . . Spent nine NBA seasons with Houston and Washington.

Career Stats.	FG Pct.	FT Pct.	Asst.	Reb.	Pts.	Avg.

Gene Shue

6-2 Forward
1951-54

Rewrote the Maryland record book and was the Terps' first high-visibility basketball star . . . Had an outstanding junior season, averaging 22.1 points per game and establishing a school record with 508 points, then earned All-American honors as a senior . . . Held the Maryland career scoring record longer than any other player—from 1954 until Tom McMillen broke it in 1974 . . . Also held the Maryland school record for points in a game until Al Bunge broke it in 1960 . . . All-American honors came from the Helms Foundation and Chuck Taylor's Converse All-American squad . . . Selected as Most Valuable Player of the 1953 Southern Conference Tournament . . . Set a tournament record that year when he scored 40 points in a semifinal loss to Wake Forest . . . Still ranks as Maryland's eighth all-time leading scorer . . . Had a successful career in the NBA and went on to spend 18 years as a coach with the NBA's Washington Bullets and Philadelphia 76ers.

Career Stats.	FG Pct.	FT Pct.	Asst.	Reb.	Pts.	Avg.

Note: Assist and rebound averages were not kept when Shue began his Maryland career; assists were not kept until 1969, and rebounds were not tabulated and/or available for Shue.

Tom McMillen

6-11 Forward
1971-74

A symbol of Maryland's basketball excellence through the years and the first super recruit ever signed by Lefty Driesell . . . A three-time All-ACC selection and three-time All-American . . . Maryland's all-time leading scorer until John Lucas broke his mark in 1976, and still the highest-scoring player in Maryland history for those with three years of eligibility . . . One of only three players in Terp history to average at least 20 points per game in back-to-back seasons . . . Still ranks fifth among all-time leading scorers, fourth among all-time rebounders, fourth among all-time field-goal percentage leaders and fourth among all-time free-throw leaders—making him and Bias the only players in Maryland history to rank among the Top 10 in four of the five major statistical categories . . . A three-time Academic All-American who majored in Pre-Med . . . A Rhodes Scholar who delayed his NBA career one year to attend Oxford . . . A member of former President Nixon's 15-member council on physical fitness and sports . . . Most Valuable Player of the 1972 NIT, when he led the Terps in scoring every game and to the NIT Championship . . . Played in the NBA for 11 seasons, with the Buffalo Braves, Atlanta Hawks, New York Knicks and Washington Bullets . . . Elected Congressman of Maryland's 4th District in 1986.

Totals	.555	.799	102	859	1807	20.5

Charles (Buck) Williams

6-8 Center/Forward
1978-81

Earned All-America honors as a junior during the 1980-81 season, when he averaged 15.6 points, 11.7 rebounds and shot a school-record 64.7 percent from the floor . . . Associated Press All-American after earning honorable mention from the wire service and UPI as a sophomore . . . Ranks second to Len Elmore among career Maryland rebounders with 928—and would have placed fifth in ACC history if those three-year totals had been projected for four years . . . Ranks ninth among all-time ACC boardmen who had three years of action . . . Ranks as Maryland all-time leader in field goal percentage, shooting a phenomenal 61.5 percent from the floor over his career . . . Led the ACC in rebounding as a freshman, finished third as a sophomore and second as a junior . . . A second-team All-ACC pick twice (1980 and 1981) . . . A selection on the 1980 United States Olympic team, a squad that did not participate in the Moscow Olympiad but won four of six games against various NBA All-Star teams . . . His defensive performances against Virginia's Ralph Sampson are legendary, and a major reason why the Terps registered a 25-15 mark against ACC opponents during his time at Maryland . . . Left after his junior season and applied for the NBA Draft as a hardship case . . . Was the third pick overall in the 1981 NBA Draft, and is entering his sixth season with the New Jersey Nets.

Maryland Basketball Olympians

The ultimate individual reward in amateur athletics is to represent his or her country in international competition. And with the right timing, talent and dedication, international competition can mean participation in an Olympiad. Three Maryland basketball players have been fortunate enough to represent the United States at such a level, allowing Maryland Basketball to gain representation in three of the last four Olympiads.

Tom McMillen—Maryland's No. 4 career scorer and cornerstone to the highly successful Terp teams from 1973-75, McMillen represented the U.S. in 1972, when Coach Henry Iba's team earned a Silver Medal. An Oxford Scholar who spent 10 seasons in the NBA, McMillen was elected Congressman of Maryland's 4th District in 1986.

Steve Sheppard—Known as the "Bear" to Maryland fans for his ferocious play on three nationally ranked teams during the mid-'70s, Sheppard played for North Carolina coach Dean Smith's gold-medal winning 1976 Olympic squad. Sheppard helped the United States to a clean sweep of competition in the Montreal Games, and later played for the Chicago Bulls in the NBA.

Buck Williams—Ranked second only to Len Elmore among all-time Maryland rebounders, Williams was a member of the 1980 Olympic Team. That squad, along with all other U.S. teams, did not participate in that summer's Moscow Olympics, but won four of six games against various NBA All-Star teams and defeated the 1976 gold-medal winning American team. Williams is a perennial All-Star with the New Jersey Nets of the NBA and was voted the league's Rookie of the Year after the 1981-82 season.

COLE FIELD HOUSE

A new era in Maryland Athletics began on Dec. 2, 1955, when the University of Maryland Activities Building was officially dedicated with a ceremony and basketball game vs. Virginia. It marked the third time in 32 years a new gym had been built to handle the increasing popularity of basketball. The building had a permanent seating capacity of 12,004 (plus 396 temporary seats), making it at the time of dedication second in size among arenas on the East Coast (to New York's Madison Square Garden).

Maryland's previous home courts included the Old Ritchie Coliseum (the recently demolished Annapolis Hall), and the 5,000-seat Ritchie Coliseum. Old Ritchie was built in 1923; eight years later, the new Ritchie was opened adjacent to the old Byrd Stadium along Route 1. As with the opening game at Ritchie, Maryland emerged from their first game in the Activities Building victorious — a 67-55 victory over the Cavaliers.

At the dedication ceremonies, Judge William P. Cole, Jr., Chairman of the Board of Regents, handed over the keys of the building to University President Wilson Elkins, who passed them to the Student Government President. The building was originally dedicated for the use of the student body but a year later was re-dedicated in honor of Cole, who served on the Board of Regents for 25 years.

Cole Field House was erected at the cost of $3.3 million and financed with funds from a self-liquidating bond issue and a special student activity fee. It now houses the main athletic department offices and all but four intercollegiate teams. Cole has served as the site of two NCAA Basketball Finals (1966 and 1970) and six Eastern Regionals of the Tournament. Other events held in Cole include the NCAA Wrestling Championships in 1960, 1972, 1978 and 1987, the CYO-M Club Invitation Track Meet, featuring national and international stars in basketball, gymnastics, table tennis and volleyball.

Maryland has a 318-112 record in 33 seasons at Cole, a winning percentage of .739.

A History of Maryland Basketball

Some 23 years after Dr. James A. Naismith introduced the sport of basketball to an assemblance of restless physical education students in Springfield, Massachusetts, the game made its first rounds within the College Park academic region. The year was 1905. Positive response to the activity was, in a word, short-lived, as a group of Maryland Agricultural College "companies" engaged in an informal, roughhouse-filled facsimile of the game as we know it today. However primitive—popular teams often enjoyed flagrant advantages, and severe physical contact usually went unpenalized—those scrimmages are considered the first in on-campus basketball competition.

But it wasn't until 1912, when the MAC Athletic Council hired Curley Byrd, future President of the University of Maryland, that the sport assumed a legitimate presence. Behind Byrd and Burt Shipley, who had captained a 1910-11 squad that periodically faced other institutions in a Sunday School gymnasium, the sport began to take initial shape. Byrd led MAC to a 6-5 record during the winter of 1913, with "stars" William (Country) Morris and Shipley leading the squad.

Battling limited financial support, a damaging fire to their facility and lack of adequate equipment, Byrd and Shipley pushed on. In 1921, after several sporadic attempts to field an annual roster, the Atlanta Athletic Club formed the Southern Conference. A year earlier, the MAC had been merged with the professional school complex in Baltimore under a single board of regents, and the necessary funds had become available for intercollegiate competition. In June, 1922, plans to construct a gymnasium were announced, and basketball became a permanent fixture in College Park in 1923.

Sixty-four years later, Maryland Basketball can look back at its participants with immense pride: Former Maryland Governor Harry Hughes, a member of the 1946 squad; Bob James, former commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference and a two-year letterman (1942-43); Rhodes Scholar Tom McMillen, an All-American who spent 11 years in the NBA before his election last fall to the U.S. House of Representatives (4th District); and Len Elmore, another All-American who became the first NBA player ever to enroll in the Harvard Law School, are to name just a few. Dozens of coaches, administrators and professional players have emerged, providing the University of Maryland status as one of college basketball's top programs.

Byrd (administrative duties) and Shipley (coaching) will forever be recognized as the pioneers. Annapolis Hall, then Ritchie Gymnasium, was the team's first permanent home; Maryland won its official debut in the building, defeating George Washington University 41-22 on January 12, 1924. Shipley, Maryland's first mentor, would coach the Terps until 1947, leading them to nine winning seasons during the '30s before World War II usurped the nation of its top young athletes.

The highlight of Shipley's tenure occurred in 1931. Maryland, which had joined the Southern Conference in 1923, rolled to the league tournament championship with victories over LSU, North Carolina, Georgia and Kentucky. Led by Louis "Bosey" Berger, the school's first basketball All-American and later a major league baseball player, the Terps had brought a major conference title north of North Carolina for the first time.

Shipley enjoyed just one winning season during the '40s (14-10 in 1946-47) before turning the program over to Alfred L. "Flucie" Stewart, who coached the Terps for only three seasons before handing the job over to Herman A. "Bud" Millikan in U.S. Congressman/Rhodes Scholar Tom McMillen (54) and Harvard Law School student Len Elmore are among the finest products of the Maryland basketball program.

May, 1950. A student of the game and pupil of longtime basketball mentor Henry Iba at Oklahoma A&M, where he had achieved All-America status, Millikan inherited a Maryland team that had gone 7-18 in 1949-50 and led it to a 16-11 record. Two more winning seasons followed, and in 1953, Maryland became a charter member of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Led by a sharpshooting guard named Gene Shue, Millikan's Terps went 23-7 in that initial ACC season and achieved their first-ever national ranking, finishing 20th. Shue, a Baltimore product whom the coach had never seen play, led the first Terp squad comprised entirely of Millikan recruits, a group that included Bob Kessler, John Sandbower, Ralph Greco, Tom Young and Ronnie Brooks. In becoming an All-American and Maryland's high-visibility basketball star, Shue scored 1,397 points in three seasons, a school record that stood until McMillen surpassed the total 20 years later. After a 10-year NBA career that included two All-Pro selections, Shue enjoyed a successful NBA coaching career in Baltimore, Philadelphia, San Diego, Washington, and Los Angeles Clippers.

Millikan followed up the national ranking with four straight winning seasons. His Terps achieved the pinnacle of success in 1957-58, when they captured the school's first ACC Tournament Championship with victories over Virginia, Duke and North Carolina. Advancing to the NCAA Tournament, the Terps defeated Boston College in the first round of the East Regional, then lost to powerful Temple in the Regional semifinals. Maryland rebounded to defeat Manhattan in the consolation game, capping their best season to date (22-7) with a No. 6 ranking in the final national poll. Members of one of Maryland's finest teams ever included Al Bunge, Charles McNeil, Nick Davis and John Nacincik, all of whom were later NBA draft picks.

An inconsistent stretch ensued. Millikan's Terps fell to 10-13 in 1958-59, rebounded for a pair of winning seasons, then suffered through three straight losing campaigns before going 18-8 in 1964-65. Millikan got one more winning season (14-11 in 1965-66) before stepping down after the 1966-67 season. Frank Fellows, a member of Millikan's first team at Maryland, succeeded him, but lasted only two seasons, as athletic director Jim Kehoe oversaw a transfusion to the program and hired Charles "Lefty" Driesell in the spring of 1969.

Terp coach Bud Millikan (with ball) won 241 games in 17 seasons at Maryland and captured the first ACC Tournament Championship in 1958. Here, he pases with his 1966-67 starting lineup, including Joe Harrington (3rd from left), the current Long Beach State coach, and current Ohio State mentor Gary Williams (far-right).

Flamboyant and outspoken, Driesell had led Davidson College to six 20-victory seasons and four Top 10 rankings since 1960. And in rebuilding the Terps through a pair of mediocre seasons amid intense fanfare, an unparalleled brand of enthusiasm swarmed Maryland Basketball. In 1972, Driesell's Terps flourished, going 27-5 with McMillen and Elmore and capturing the National Invitational Tournament championship. Crowds of 3,000 became sellouts in the 14,500-seat Cole Field House as Driesell established Maryland as a national power. An era had been conceived.

The 1972 NIT crown ignited a 15-year period of excellence. Driesell led Maryland to 321 victories (23.0 wins per season) 10 seasons of at least 20 victories and eight NCAA Tournament appearances. Six All-Americans emerged from 1972 to 1986:

McMillen, Elmore, John Lucas, Buck Williams, Albert King and Len Bias. The Terps finished in the Associated Press Top 20 eight times during the era, won an ACC Tournament Championship in 1984 and advanced to the league finals six times. In college basketball's toughest conference, the Maryland basketball program had established itself as a prominent, consistent force.

The beginning of a new era marked the 1986-87 season. The task of expanding upon the rich tradition of Maryland Basketball falls to Bob Wade, whose success at Baltimore-Dunbar High School is matched by few. Undoubtedly, the tradition will continue to grow.

Dr. Betty F. Smith/Chairperson, Athletic Council Faculty Representative for Athletic Department

Dr. Smith was appointed as Chairperson of the Athletic Council by Chancellor John Slaughter on June 1, 1985, succeeding Dr. Charles A. Taff, who had held the position since 1978. Slaughter's appointment made Dr. Smith the first female to hold such a position in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Dr. Smith came to Maryland in August, 1970, as Professor and Chairman of the Department of Textiles and Consumer Economics, a position she holds today. Prior to joining the Maryland staff, she served as a member of the faculty of Cornell University.

A native of Arkansas, Dr. Smith obtained her B.S. degree at the University of Arkansas in 1951. Six years later she received an M.S. degree from Tennessee, and was awarded her Ph.D. in Textiles from Minnesota. Dr. Smith earned a second Ph.D. in Biochemistry at Minnesota in 1965.

In 1971, Dr. Smith was elected a fellow of the Textile Institute. She belongs to many professional societies, including the American Chemical Society, Sigma Xi, the Fiber Society, and the American Economics Association. With approximately 70 publications and papers from research in Textiles to her credit, Dr. Smith is also the co-author of the book Introduction to Textiles (Smith and I. Block), published by Prentice-Hall in 1982. In 1984, Dr. Smith was named a distinguished Alumna of Southern University. Since coming to Maryland, she has served on many departments and College and University committees.

When having time to relax from her heavy load of academic responsibilities, Dr. Smith is an avid golfer.

Kevin Weiberg (Kansas State '78) Associate Athletic Director

When Lew Perkins was named the Director of Athletics at Maryland, his first and foremost thoughts turned to choosing an Associate Athletic Director to assist him with the all-important responsibilities of establishing the proper priorities of setting up the many right ways to get started on his tasks involved in taking over a new Athletic Department program.

He didn't have to search hard or long. His choice was in another office, just down the hallway, that of Kevin Weiberg. At Maryland, he will handle the day-to-day administration of the athletic department, just as he did at Wichita State. He served as Perkins' assistant athletic director, 1983-85, then was promoted to associate athletic director in January, 1986, a position he held until his decision to join the Maryland administrative staff.

Among his major responsibilities at Wichita State was directing the Shocker Athletic Scholarship Organization, (SASO), a $1 million annual support program for the Shocker athletics.

Weiberg, 31, also was responsible for developing the overall marketing plan for the athletic department; supervising the ticket office and sports information operations; developing fund-raising efforts related to facility improvements and new athletics facility construction; scheduling contests in football and men's and women's basketball; negotiating radio and television contracts; developing athletic department annual budgets, particularly related to revenue projections; and monitoring daily department revenue expenditure reports.

He went to Wichita State in 1980 as sports information director, a position he held for three years before assuming the title of assistant director under Athletic Director Lew Perkins. Weiberg worked as sports information director at Wayne State College in Nebraska for a year prior to joining the staff at Wichita State.

A native of Anthony, Kan., Weiberg earned his degree in education from Kansas State University in 1978 and received his master's degree in athletic administration from Western Illinois University in 1979.

Weiberg and his wife, Susan, have a daughter, Erika.

Dr. Gerald S. Gurney (The Ohio State University '73) Assistant Athletic Director

Dr. Gerald S. Gurney serves as Assistant Athletic Director for the department's Academic Support Unit and holds additional departmental compliance office duties.

As the director of academic support, Dr. Gurney is in charge of developing a nationally recognized comprehensive and academic support system to assist Terrapin student-athletes with their degree plans. He provides leadership and administrative direction to the unit's outstanding academic counselors and support staff. Gurney also is the athletic department's primary academic liaison with the Maryland faculty, staff and administrators.

Dr. Gurney joined the Maryland staff in September, 1987, after eight years tenure at Southern Methodist University and Iowa State University where he headed some of the most successful athletic academic support programs in the country. His credentials include a Ph.D. from Iowa State University, 1980, in higher education administration. He received an M.A. in counseling and student personnel work and a B.S. in English education, both from The Ohio State University.

Other professional experiences include being an academic adviser and personal counselor at Grinnell College and working for two years at the Iowa State counseling service. His writings have been published in several professional journals on the subjects of vocational psychology and the student-athlete. Dr. Gurney has also served as the editor of the Academic Athletic Journal.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Gurney was a two sport standout at Cleveland Heights High School. He played football and wrestled at Heidelberg College (Ohio) before transferring to Ohio State. With that athletic background, Dr. Gurney understands the time demands and pressures on student-athletes.

Dr. Gurney said, "The Maryland program of academic support is not only concerned with the student-athletes' eligibility, but their progress toward obtaining a college degree. The University of Maryland has the firm commitment to offer their student-athletes every opportunity to become successful graduates. The University backs this commitment with programs to improve the learning skills of student-athletes and offer them every opportunity for an education to last a lifetime."

Dr. Gurney and his wife, Debra, have a daughter, Rachel, age 3.

Jeff Hathaway (Maryland '81) Assistant Athletic Director

Jeff Hathaway assumed the duties of assistant athletic director in 1986, replacing Frank Gray, who retired after serving in many capacities at Maryland since 1943.

Hathaway had previously served as business manager. After graduating from Maryland, he went directly to the Chicago White Sox, where he served as director of community relations. While with the White Sox, Hathaway arranged all public appearances and speaking engagements for players in 1981 and 1982. He came to Maryland as an undergraduate from DeMatha High, where he served as basketball manager and assistant trainer for coach Morgan Wooten. Hathaway also acted as student trainer for two years with the Maryland basketball team, and for two years with the football team.

Hathaway did his public relations internship with the Washington Redskins during their 1980 training camp, under the tutelage of current assistant sports information director Joe Blair. He received his B.S. in Athletic Administration through the Individual Studies program. Hathaway is a certified emergency medical technician.

Thomas M. Fields (Maryland '42) Executive Director Educational Foundation

Col. Tom Fields has served as executive director of the Maryland Educational Foundation since 1970, when he retired as a Colonel in the United States Marine Corps.

During the last year, the funds generated by the Educational Foundation totaled more than $2.6 million. The membership of the Terrapin Club has expanded to 3,805 with 110 lifetime members ($10,000 contribution), 176 Super Terrapins ($2,500 annual contribution) 535 Diamondbackers ($1,500 annual contribution) and 689 Gold Members ($750 annual contribution).

More than 50 percent of all contributors did not attend Maryland, but all are strong supporters of the university, the NCAA, and the principles of competition.

The funds provided by the foundation have enabled the Terps to develop one of the best women's athletic programs in the nation. All funds go to scholarships; the scholarship programs for the female athletes is equal to the program for men's non-revenue sports.

Fields was a track star for the Terps as an undergraduate and helped lead Maryland to one of its finest days ever at the Penn Relays, as the Terps won three Championship of America relays. During World War II, Fields served in combat on Guadalcanal, Vella Lavella, Bougainville, and Iwo Jima. He also served in Korea and Vietnam. At the time of his retirement from the Corps, Fields was Deputy Director of Information, Headquarters, Marine Corps.

Gothard Lane (Randolph-Macon '71)
Assistant Athletic Director

Gothard Lane assumed the duties of assistant athletic director for non-revenue sports in March, 1982.

He began his career at Maryland in 1973, when he was hired by football coach Jerry Claiborne as a defensive backfield coach, a job he held for four years. From 1977 to 1982, Lane held the position of administrative assistant to the director of athletics, and director of recruiting.

As assistant AD, Lane holds administrative responsibility for all men's and women's non-revenue sports.

Robert T. Stumpff (Maryland '68)
Assistant Athletic Director

Bob Stumpff returned to the Terrapin athletic department in July, 1980, as assistant athletic director for business affairs. He now supervises the game-day activities of Byrd Stadium and Cole Field House and is responsible for the daily operation of all athletic facilities, including security and scheduling.

Stumpff came to Maryland from Lewis-town, Pa., where he was on the wrestling and track teams. As an undergraduate at Maryland, he was manager of the wrestling team before receiving his degree in Transportation Administration in June, 1968. Upon graduation, he was named administrative assistant to the director of athletics, Jim Kehoe. From September, 1969 to July, 1980, Stumpff served as associate director of the Maryland Student Union. He is a 1978 graduate of the University of Kentucky's College of Business Management Institute.

Since 1970, Stumpff has been a member of the Board of Governors of the M Club and is presently an advisor to the Sigma Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa. Stumpff is also a member of the College of Athletic Business Managers Associates.

Woodrow (Woody) Williams (Morgan State '64)
Administrative Assistant

As administrative assistant, Williams will coordinate Cole Field House practice and game schedules, coordinate game day setup for men's and women's basketball and coordinate all travel arrangements for men's basketball.

He will serve as liaison between the men's basketball coaching staff and athletic department administration as well as other University administrative personnel and will be assigned additional athletic department duties.

Williams is a graduate of Morgan State University, receiving his Bachelor of Science in Physical Education in 1964 and a Master of Science in Physical Education in 1974.

He was born in Philadelphia, June 20, 1942 and attended Glassboro, NJ, High School, graduating in 1960. He enrolled at Morgan State in 1960.

Since his graduation from Morgan State in 1964, Williams devoted 22 years to the Baltimore City Public School System. He joined the Physical Education staff at Edmondston Senior High in 1965 as a teacher and coach and developed championship teams in football, track, swimming and basketball. He moved to Lake Clifton in 1979 and continued to develop championship teams in track, football and basketball. He taught Physical Education and was the Department Head and served as Lake Clifton's Athletic Director. He was selected basketball Coach of the Year in 1975 by the Baltimore Sun and football Coach of the Year in 1980. He was a member of the coaching staff for the McDonald's Capital Classic, 1983; the Dapper Dan All-American game, 1983; and the McDonald's All-American game in Los Angeles, 1984.

During the summer years, 1974-82, he served as field supervisor in the Mayor's Office of Manpower Resource.

He married Beverly Brown in 1966. They have a daughter, Lanaya, age 11.

John W. Zane (Maryland '60)
Sports Information Director

Entering his 19th year as sports information director at Maryland and his 28th year in sports information, Jack Zane was accorded the highest honor in his field last summer, when he was selected to the CoSIDA Hall of Fame by past members of the Hall.

Zane returned to Maryland in August, 1969, after serving as SID at The George Washington University for six years. He received his degree in Journalism from Maryland in February, 1960, after serving as student assistant to Joe Blair for three years. He served as Blair's full-time assistant for two years after graduation. While at Maryland, Zane was the first executive sports editor of the Diamondback, SMC of Pi Kappa Alpha and a member of the Sigma Delta Chi journalism fraternity.

He served seven years as a member of the NCAA Public Relations Committee and one year as a member of the NCAA public relations/promotions committee. Zane has been a member of CoSIDA for 27 years, and was elevated to the Presidency of CoSIDA at the 1985 meeting in Boston. Zane is also a member of the Football, Basketball and Baseball Writers of America, the Maryland Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the Atlantic Coast Conference Sportswriters and the Washington, D.C. Touchdown Club, as well as a Diamondback Member of the Terrapin Club.

A graduate of Southern (Harwood) High in Lothion, Zane is a native of Maryland and served 4½ years in the Navy before enrolling at Maryland. He is married to the former Judy Allen of Fayetteville, W. Va. and a graduate of The George Washington University.

Joseph F. Blair (Missouri '50)
Assistant Sports Information Director

Joe Blair returned to Maryland in August, 1983, where he began his public relations career 33 years before. He served as sports information director at Maryland for 13 years before joining the Washington Redskins as public relations director and head of media relations.

He has worked with the NFL Players Association, assisted at Maryland and served as a consultant for the U.S. Football League Washington Federals during his 37 years in the area.

Joe spent a total of 18 years with the Redskins, retiring after earning his Super Bowl ring in 1982, when the Redskins defeated the Miami Dolphins. He has worked with a National Championship team at Maryland (1953) and served as an assistant to the NFL at 12 Super Bowls. The "Blair Lounge" at the nearby Ledo restaurant was named after him in 1956.

In returning to Maryland four years ago, Blair rejoined Jack Zane, whom he lured to the field as a Maryland student. He served as Best Man at Zane's 1966 wedding. A product of the Missouri School of Journalism, Blair is a veteran of World War II (Air Force) and a native of Freeport, Pa.

Frank Costello (Maryland '68)
Strength and Conditioning Coach

Frank Costello assumed the position as assistant to the athletic director in 1981, and is in charge of the strength and conditioning program for the entire athletic department.

No stranger to Maryland, Costello was an All-America high jumper for the Terps from 1965-1968 and served as assistant track coach for six years after graduation.

He was named head track coach in 1974, a position he held for seven years. He developed several world-class track stars, including world record holder hurdler Renaldo Nehemiah.

Costello came to Maryland as the New Jersey high jump champion and record holder in 1963, and was undefeated in ACC, IC4A and NCAA competition in 1965, winning both NCAA titles. While competing with Maryland, he also won seven titles in the Penn Relays, the Milrose Games, the Eastern European Championships, the Southern Hemisphere Games and the French National Championship. He was ranked third in the world in 1966.

In addition to coaching track and field, Costello has published several articles on training techniques. He served as a conditioning consultant for the NFL's Green Bay Packers from 1977-80, and has served as high jump coach for the Olympic Development Program.

THE VOICES OF TERRAPIN BASKETBALL:

Johnny Holliday and Greg Manning

The most versatile broadcaster in Washington is WMAL's Johnny Holliday. His play-by-play coverage of the Maryland basketball and football games on WMAL have earned him the title as "Voice of the Terrapins." This is his ninth year as the Terps' play-by-play man. The analyst commentary will be handled by former Terrapin star, 1977-81, Greg Manning for the third year.

Holliday hosts the Maryland Coaches Corner on Television with Bob Wade and Joe Krivak. He also hosts the Redskins Review for Home Team Sports, does play-by-play of other college games as well as the Washington Bullet games for HTS.

Johnny's sports reports are heard weekday mornings on WMAL, and on the ABC Information Network mornings and afternoons across the country. He hosts the WMAL stadium show before each Redskin game, home and away. His morning shows are heard on the city's highest rated morning show, the Harden and Weaver Show.

He has been selected by the ABC radio network to anchor the Winter and Summer 1988 Olympics.

In spite of his busy schedule, Johnny still finds time to participate in a variety of community services for which he has been honored by Washingtonian Magazine as "Washingtonian of the Year." His Radio Wonders Celebrity basketball teams have raised more than a million dollars over the years for local charities. He can be seen in the off-season at the Harlequin Dinner Theater where this season he starred in the highly acclaimed premiere of 42nd Street.

Johnny and his wife, Mary Clare, are the parents of three daughters, Kellie, 27, is in her fourth year of medical school in Philadelphia. Tracie, 24, is a nurse in Neonatology at the University of Virginia Hospital. Moira, 8, is in the third grade at Stone Ridge Country Day School of the Sacred Heart.

Greg Manning's two-years as color commentator has been an exceptionally strong one. The former Terp guard is the school's all-time leader in career free throw percentage (85.8 percent), ranks second in career field goal percentage (58.3) and seventh among all-time scorers (1,561 points). During his four years as a player, the Terps posted a 79-42 record, advanced to the NCAA Tournament twice and advanced to the ACC Tournament Championship game twice.

Manning is one of only a handful of players in Terp history to average double-figure point totals for four straight seasons. He is also the only player in ACC history to lead the conference in both field goal and free throw percentage, a feat he accomplished in the 1979-80 season. He averaged 13.2 points per game throughout his four-year career.
